Friday February 6, 6:00 am ET

Life is No Longer Simple and Predictable

Is Your Family Ready? Are Your Students Ready?

BUCKINGHAM, Pa., Feb. 6 /PRNewswire/ -- Decisions based on principles such as honesty, courage and responsibility serve as the foundation for actions of success and distinction in the home, the community and the marketplace.

Life is no longer simple and predictable. Unforeseen events in our home, our community and the world cause us significant uncertainty in reaching our hopes and dreams. During times of uncertainty, making decisions and taking action based on correct principles, not emotion or impulse, are critical to ensuring lasting success and distinction for individuals and families.

Abundant Harvest(TM) can help! The intent of Abundant Harvest(TM) is to provide families, friends and educators the opportunity to openly discuss the often difficult and complex issues of the real world for the purpose of preparing individuals to make more effective decisions along the journey of life. In addition, Abundant Harvest(TM) can open the door to more effective communication between spouses and between parents and children and can serve as a supportive tool for educators and counselors who seek to provide guidance and direction to others as they face the complexity of life today.

Board games provide a great platform for teaching and instructing. Abundant Harvest(TM) takes players on a fun-filled learning journey through various real world scenarios. There are two versions of Abundant Harvest(TM).

Abundant Harvest(TM) for ages 12 to Adult:

The situations presented in this version of the game are directed towards teenage and adult groups. Many of the situations deal with the difficult issues of drugs, family conflicts, peer pressure and the complex and unpredictable nature of being an adolescent and/or adult in today's world.

Abundant Harvest(TM) for Kids for ages 5 to Adult:

The situations presented in this version of the game are directed towards children who are learning the importance of making decisions that are based on principle. The scenarios provide parents, caregivers and educators the opportunity to teach children, and allow children to begin to develop and apply principle-based reasoning skills as they work their way through situations common in today's world.

The games are currently being well received in the marketplace by families, educators and faith-based organizations.

The Felician Sisters of the Immaculate Conception Province (Lodi, NJ) have reviewed and used the games and believe Abundant Harvest(TM) is "a wonderful tool to reinforce the Church's support of marriage and family in addition to supporting more effective decision making among our youth." Debbie Stevens, Children's Pastor at Family Worship Center in Lansdale, PA, commented that, "Abundant Harvest(TM) creates a much needed opportunity for parents, educators and counselors to talk with children and teenagers about making more effective decisions in an increasingly complex world and helps to reinforce the principle that 'you reap what you sow' in every aspect of life."

The games are currently available at www.AMAZON.com in the toys/games section and directly from Harvest Time Partners at www.harvesttimepartners.com.
